

Spread Brand Awareness With Sustainable Merch

Eco-friendly, branded products are good for the planet and for promoting your business. Choose from these sustainable advertising solutions or talk to us to discover even more environmentally friendly branding ideas.

Bags & Clothing Made of Recycled Materials

Wearable items like branded bags and shirts made from recycled materials not only look stylish, they also show that you care about the environment. No matter if they're made from recycled cotton, canvas or plastic, these eco-friendly favorites offer lots of real estate for your logo and branding and are sure to be worn and seen often.

Reduce Plastic With Reusable Drinkware

Make every sip a sustainable statement with branded reusable drinkware. From stainless-steel tumblers to bottles made from recycled materials, reusable drinkware cuts down on the need for single-use products and will be used daily, ensuring your brand gets seen. Consider investing in reusable straws and cutlery to increase your environmental impact even more!

Give Back to the Planet With Plantable Products

Combat the idea of promotional products being "brandfill" with plantable products that leave no waste behind. Made with biodegradable materials and seeds, items like seed paper bookmarks and coasters can be planted after use and will sprout into plants like wildflowers or herbs. This interactive element will provide a memorable brand experience while also showcasing your commitment to sustainability.

Don't Forget Sustainable Packaging

If your logoed merch is going to be packaged when it's handed out, make sure that packaging reflects your brand's values. Choose sustainable packaging options like boxes, mailers and filler made from compostable materials that are recyclable and biodegradable to communicate a green message before your products are even opened.
